Description: This serene, oceanfront layout rests along the bluffs of the California Riviera, with two consecutive holes (No. 3 and No. 4) running right along the Pacific that make this a “must play” Southern California experience.

Playing between a welcoming 5,000 yards and a championship-caliber 6,600 yards, this par 70 has the classic Robert Trent Jones Jr. design theme of providing golfers of all skill levels an enjoyable and engaging challenge.

Renovated in 2001, tight manicured fairways and smallish, undulating greens, as well as immaculate conditions, beautiful flower beds and flash faced white sand bunkers continue to define the course experience.

The course meanders inland through an upscale resort and residential community. The first nine finishes with four holes bordered by a devilish arroyo with a creek running through it. The back nine ambles into a sunny valley as it leads to the invigorating No. 18, which is distinctly influenced by water.

Practice Area: A practice putting green and adjacent hitting bays provide the opportunity to work on your short game and get your swing warmed up.
